Typical open polder landscape is threatened by the advancing urban expansion. Till now cities and polder are back to back. In order to keep this National Landscape open, the plan sets up a strategy to create alliances between farmers and urban residents, through programs and spatial connections.

From disconnected to connected.

Landscape development plan for the oldest polder of The Netherlands, where the open landscape is threatened by the expanding cities.

A few of the guidelines and inspirations to develop the polder in the next 20 years.
